WASHINGTON D.C., Oct. 11 (Xinhua) --China's policies on anti-poverty, anti-pollution and anti-corruption are people-centered and make people's lives better, said Robert Lawrence Kuhn, a renowned U.S. expert on China.

Having witnessed firsthand China's changes over the past decade, Kuhn is deeply impressed by what China has achieved. He highlights three key phrases illustrating China's development: poverty alleviation, environmental protection, and people-centered philosophy.
